From Vuori's perspective as the Importer of Record, our approach is product-based. We create and maintain one CPSC Product ID per unique style (e.g., V3070), supported by the applicable GCC, test reports (including flammability), manufacturer information, and version control in ACE.

From Flexport's perspective as our customs broker/logistics partner, we understand that entries are shipment-based, meaning the same style may appear across multiple customs entries with different entry numbers and entry dates as shipments arrive into the U.S.

Using V3070 as an example, we see multiple entry dates (e.g., 03/05/2026, 03/08/2026, 03/09/2026, 03/10/2026). Our understanding is that these represent separate shipment events and do not require re-creation or re-certification of the same product profile in CPSC/ACE, provided that:

- The product itself has not changed
- The supply chain (manufacturer/factory) remains the same
- The applicable flammability test report and other compliance documentation remain valid

Under these conditions, the same CPSC Product ID and GCC can be reused across multiple shipments, with Flexport referencing the existing Product ID at the entry level.
